

Continuing Education Preparing Your Organization to Respond to Disasters and Terrorism: Partnerships, Resources and Best Practices

Networking with Community Partners in Times of Disasters

Strong community partnerships are critical to serving children and families following a disaster or terrorist event. Understanding which organizations are commonly active in disasters and their functions can help child-serving providers build relationships that will strengthen their response in times of need. This webinar provides strategies for establishing and expanding partnerships, discusses considerations for networking in rural and frontier communities, and highlights the role of health care coalitions and schools.

June 13, 2018

9:00 to 10:30 AM PT/ 12:00 to 1:30 PM ET

<https://goo.gl/u6jdWQ>

- Anthony Speier, PhD, Louisiana State University Health Sciences Center
- Lynn Garst, MEd, Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment
- Merritt Schreiber, PhD, David Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA
- Juliet Vogel, PhD, Long Island Jewish Medical Center
- Moderated by Melissa Brymer, PhD PsyD, National Center for Child Traumatic Stress UCLA-Duke University

The National Center for Child Traumatic Stress has been approved by NBCC as an Approved Continuing Education Provider, ACEP No. 6647. Programs that do not qualify for NBCC credit are clearly identified. This program is approved by the National Association of Social Workers (NASW Provider #: 886476741) for 1 continuing education contact hour for each 1 hour NCTSN Training Presentation. The National Center for Child Traumatic Stress is approved by the American Psychological Association to sponsor continuing education for psychologists. The National Center for Child Traumatic Stress maintains responsibility for this program and its content. More information about this and other programs offered for continuing education credit is available on the NCTSN Learning Center at <https://learn.nctsn.org/cecredit>.